

After the August 14, 2003 blackout, I think that the only thing that power companies should worry about is power over power lines. Lets get the basics correct and stick with it!